¹This is the expected standard deviation of the portfolio's returns. It reflects how near or far we expect returns to be from the average in most scenarios. The higher the figure, the more volatile we expect the portfolio to be.

We review these figures regularly and they can change.

Risk profile

The portfolio aims to maximise growth over the longer term while being managed to a level of risk. It aims to deliver a relatively high level of return over the longer term but clients should be prepared to accept significant fluctuations in value, which may result in some sustained periods of negative performance. As with any investment, the value can go down as well as up, and may be worth less than what was paid in.

The portfolio will have exposure to a wide range of asset classes which may include growth assets such as equities, property, high yield bonds, emerging market debt, and, to a lesser extent, defensive assets such as cash, money market securities and corporate bonds. In the main, exposure to these asset classes will be achieved through holdings in a range of actively or passively managed funds. The portfolio can also invest in absolute return funds that aim to provide positive investment returns, regardless of whether markets are going down or up, over the medium to long term. They do this by using a wide range of investment strategies including those using derivatives.

Investment strategy

The 1825 Portfolios, managed by Standard Life Wealth, are a proprietary range of risk managed portfolios for exclusive use by 1825 clients. They aim to maximise levels of return given the risk objective and constraints set for each portfolio. They do this by investing in a diverse range of investments from across the world through a carefully selected portfolio of funds from some of the leading fund management groups in the market.

In addition to a broad range of traditional assets like equities, bonds and property, the 1825 Portfolios also invest in absolute return funds. Absolute return funds typically aim to manage and diversify risk as a means of delivering a lower volatility return that is more independent of market direction and global economic conditions than a traditional fund. They often use cash as a benchmark with a target return over and above this. Absolute return funds can feature within the growth or defensive portions of the 1825 Portfolios, depending on their characteristics.

The 1825 Portfolios are actively managed by award winning discretionary managers Standard Life Wealth, supported by global fund management house Aberdeen Standard Investments². The Portfolio Manager makes use of both strategic and tactical asset allocations.

The strategic asset allocation ensures a wide range of investments are employed to spread risk, and the tactical asset allocation enables the manager to add value through taking shorter term positions relative to the strategic asset allocation weights.

²Aberdeen Standard Investments is a brand of the investment business of Aberdeen Asset Management and Standard Life Investments.
